

Affirmations for the childless not by choice woman and man

I am willing and worthy to live my best, most relevant and joyful life.

I am mentally, emotionally, physically, and spiritually healed.

I love me and the person I am becoming.

I am living the life God planned for me, and He knows best.

I am thankful for the right people in my life. And I ask them to forgive me for the times I was not at my best.

I am thankful for the people who have left my life. And I forgive them for any wrong they did to me.

Although childless not by choice, I have a role in life, and I do something toward that role every day.

I have created strong boundaries in my personal and professional life. Doing so allows me to live a mentally healthy and productive life.

Understanding my path and my role in life means I am no longer taken advantage of by friends and family who believe I have extra time and money because I am childless.

My future is bright and beautiful! And I look forward to taking part 100%!
